

www.CrosswordWeaver.com

ACROSS

- 3 The primary target of German submarines
- 6 Used by the Germans for their heads prior to the Stahlhelm helmet
- 7 The British machine gun that the Germans copied
- 8 The nation that introduced the first combat tank
- 9 Initially impossible for aircraft to do on any type warship
- 10 An initial helmet to protect soldiers from artillery shells
- 12 These were destroyed by air to air rockets
- 14 A mine designed to explode at a specific depth
- 15 Earlier source of anti-aircraft weaponry
- 22 The German name for submarines in World War One and Two
- 23 A helmet that the British and Americans adopted
- 24 Timed in sequence
- 25 A warship that sacrificed armor for speed
- 29 Enabled armies to hit targets deep behind enemy lines
- 30 German airships used as scouts and bombers

DOWN

- 1 The nation that used the greatest amount of poison gas
- 2 Used to direct artillery fire in World War One
- 4 The US Browning was superior to this previous U.S. rifle
- 5 The power for the dreadnaughts propulsion
- 11 The warship that used planes as the primary weapon
- 13 An underwater microphone used to find submarines
- 16 A plane with an engine mounted in the rear
- 17 The machine gun that required six men to operate
- 18 The German word for undersea boat
- 19 The German Mauser 98 was a good for this form of combat
- 20 The form of combat made obsolete by the introduction of tanks
- 21 The largest artillery gun ever built
- 26 The number of shots that the Lee-Enfield rifle fired before reloading
- 27 The method that most poison gas was delivered to the enemy
- 28 Made the Colt Browning 1895 machine gun to be automatic

Answer Sheet (Crossword #3)

